Key populations are healthy and empowered through inclusive people-centred SRHR

We build on past achievements

1. Capable, inclusive, influential and mutually supportive KP movements in an unrestricted civic space
2. An end to sexual and gender-based violence, stigmatisation and discrimination against KPs
3. Equal access to inclusive, people-centred, accountable and integrated HIV and comprehensive SRH services

The advocacy of a robust KP movement:
Is capable, inclusive, influential and mutually supportive and influences decision-makers to address gender-based violence, stigmatisation and discrimination
Has helped preserve and expand civic space
Facilitated incremental steps towards decriminalisation and destigmatisation of sex work, marginalised gender identities, same-sex relationships, HIV, and the possession and use of drugs
Led to increased access to inclusive, gender-sensitive, people-centred, accountable and comprehensive HIV and SRH services

Diverse KP movements:
Have (female and youth) leadership and agency, increasingly engage in Policy-making processes and decision making
Mobilise, connect, strengthen and complement each other and collectively collaborate with other stakeholders
Humanise KPs, reduce gender-based violence, create momentum for decriminalisation and destigmatisation and integrated HIV and comprehensive SRH services
Hold governments and other actors accountable to their commitments on SRHR and to advocate for (gender-equal and KP-inclusive) laws and policies

Diverse KP communities:
Are inclusive of women and young people, and have strengthened their capacity to claim their rights and freedoms
Affirm each other’s rights, freedoms and strengths, and recognise their intersections
Collaborate with each other, as well as with champions among governments, multilaterals and other actors
Identify and promote effective approaches that challenge power structures that cause inequality that erode and dehumanise KPs and intersectional Identities and improve HIV and SRH service delivery practice

We use our collective lived experience, convening power and strong networks to bring together diverse KP groups. We prioritise their wellbeing and the inclusion of women and gender non-confirming people and support them with flexible resources for:
1. Innovation, cross-learning and capacity strengthening
2. Mobilisation and iterative, collective strategising
3. The promotion and protection of human rights for KPs and their access to justice
4. KPs’ increasingly joint and effective advocacy for SRH services
